"The time has come," the Walrus said,
"To talk of many things:
Of shoes — and ships — and sealing wax —
Of cabbages — and kings —
And why the sea is boiling hot —
And whether pigs have wings."

Through the Looking Glass

See reflected in these pages, as in a mirror, the busy life of Anderson in all its phases — from the first frenzied rush to the last lingering farewell.

Dedication

Mr. Tucker is a man who has dedicated his life to instructing and guiding the youth of the community. His keen, inquisitive mind led many a confused student in the path of knowledge. No question was too small to be answered; no problem, too large to be solved. He carried out his appointed tasks cheerfully. His "How should I know if science doesn't?" still brings back nostalgic memories to those of us who were lucky enough to have known him. Our only regret is that illness holds him from his chosen work.

The bell sounds, and another day of classes begins with crowds of Andersonites rushing through the halls.

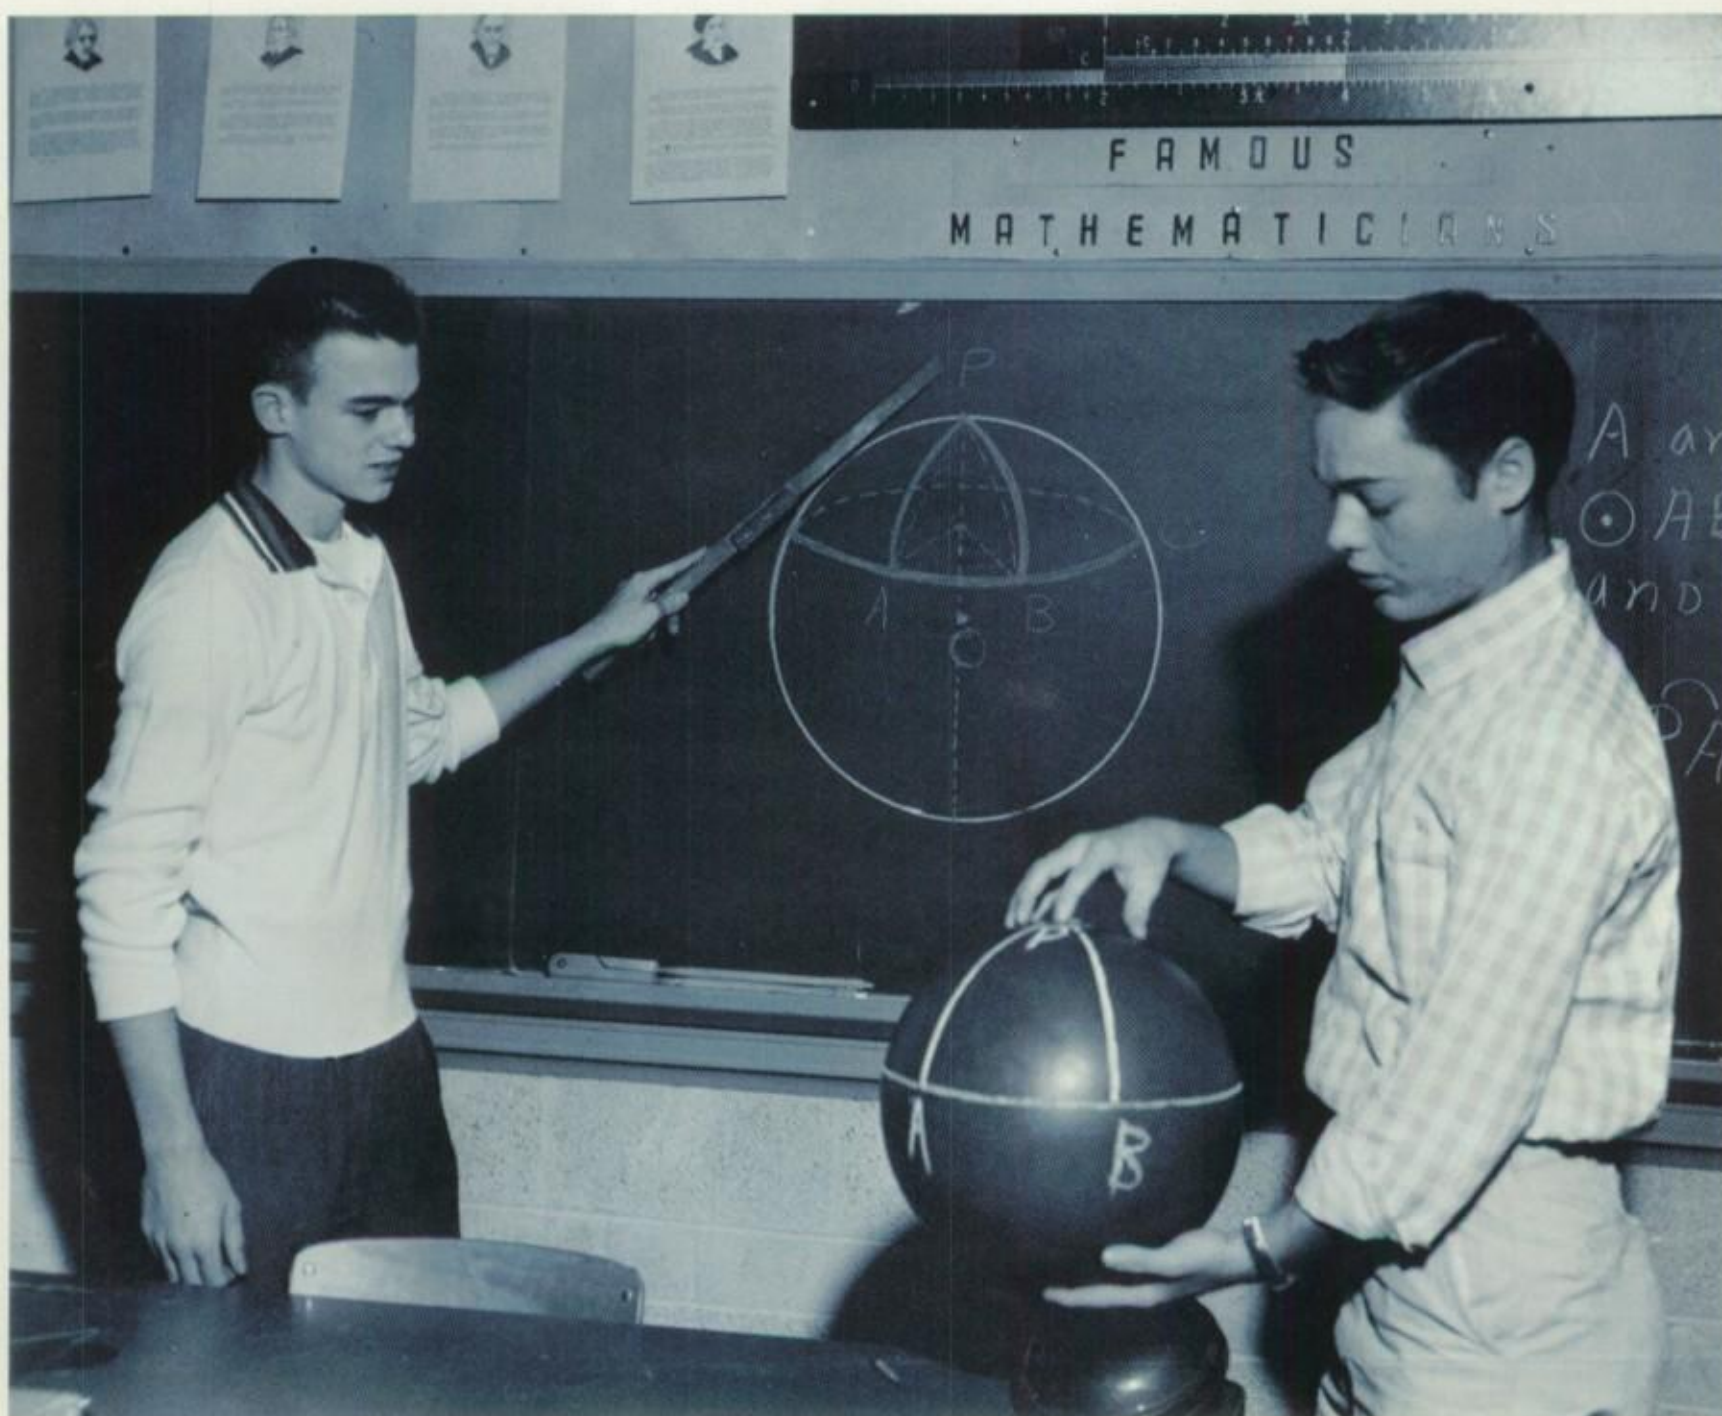

The library is the center of everyday activities where students come to catch up on last night's homework and look up that extra bit of reference for an "A" grade.

Trained hands prepare the designs for tomorrow's production and architectural structures.

By applying principles of logical reasoning, Jerry Denges and Gerald Salters prove a theorem pertaining to spherical distances.

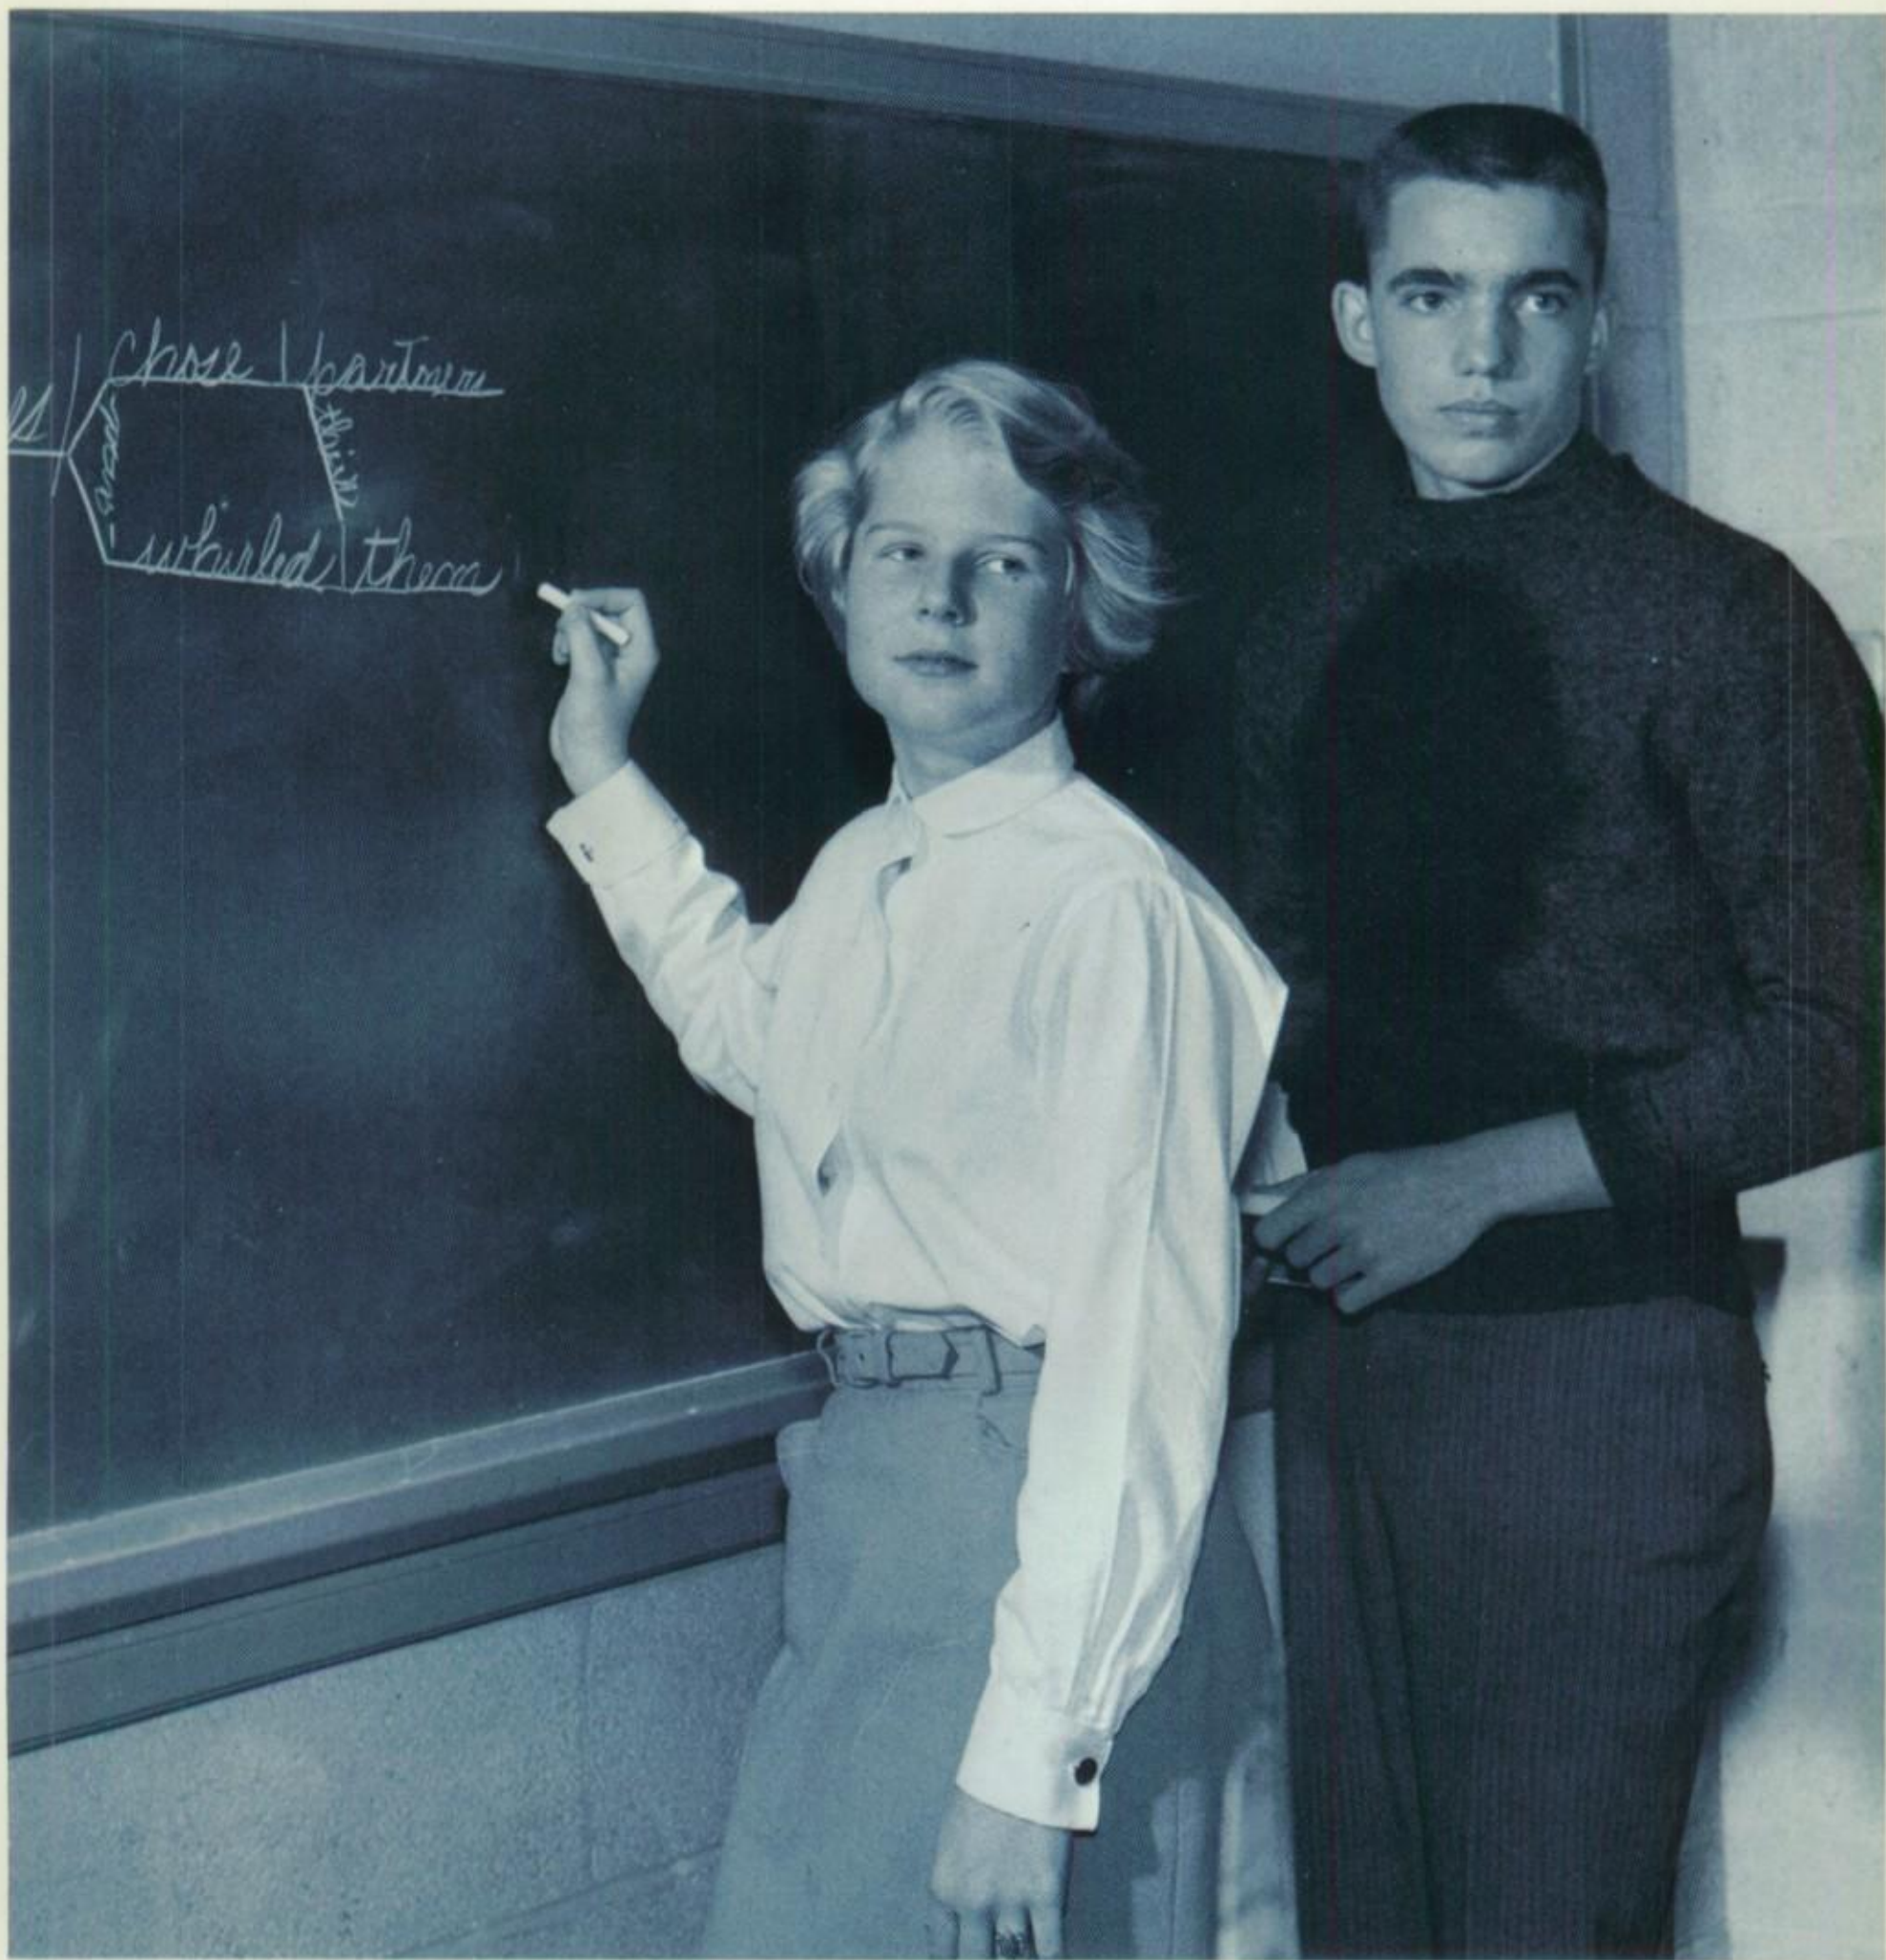

By practical experimentation Russell Waddell, Robert Gibson, and Mary Martin analyze substances of which the physical world is composed.

Ed Doench learns the techniques of using a microscope to explore the hidden mysteries of nature.

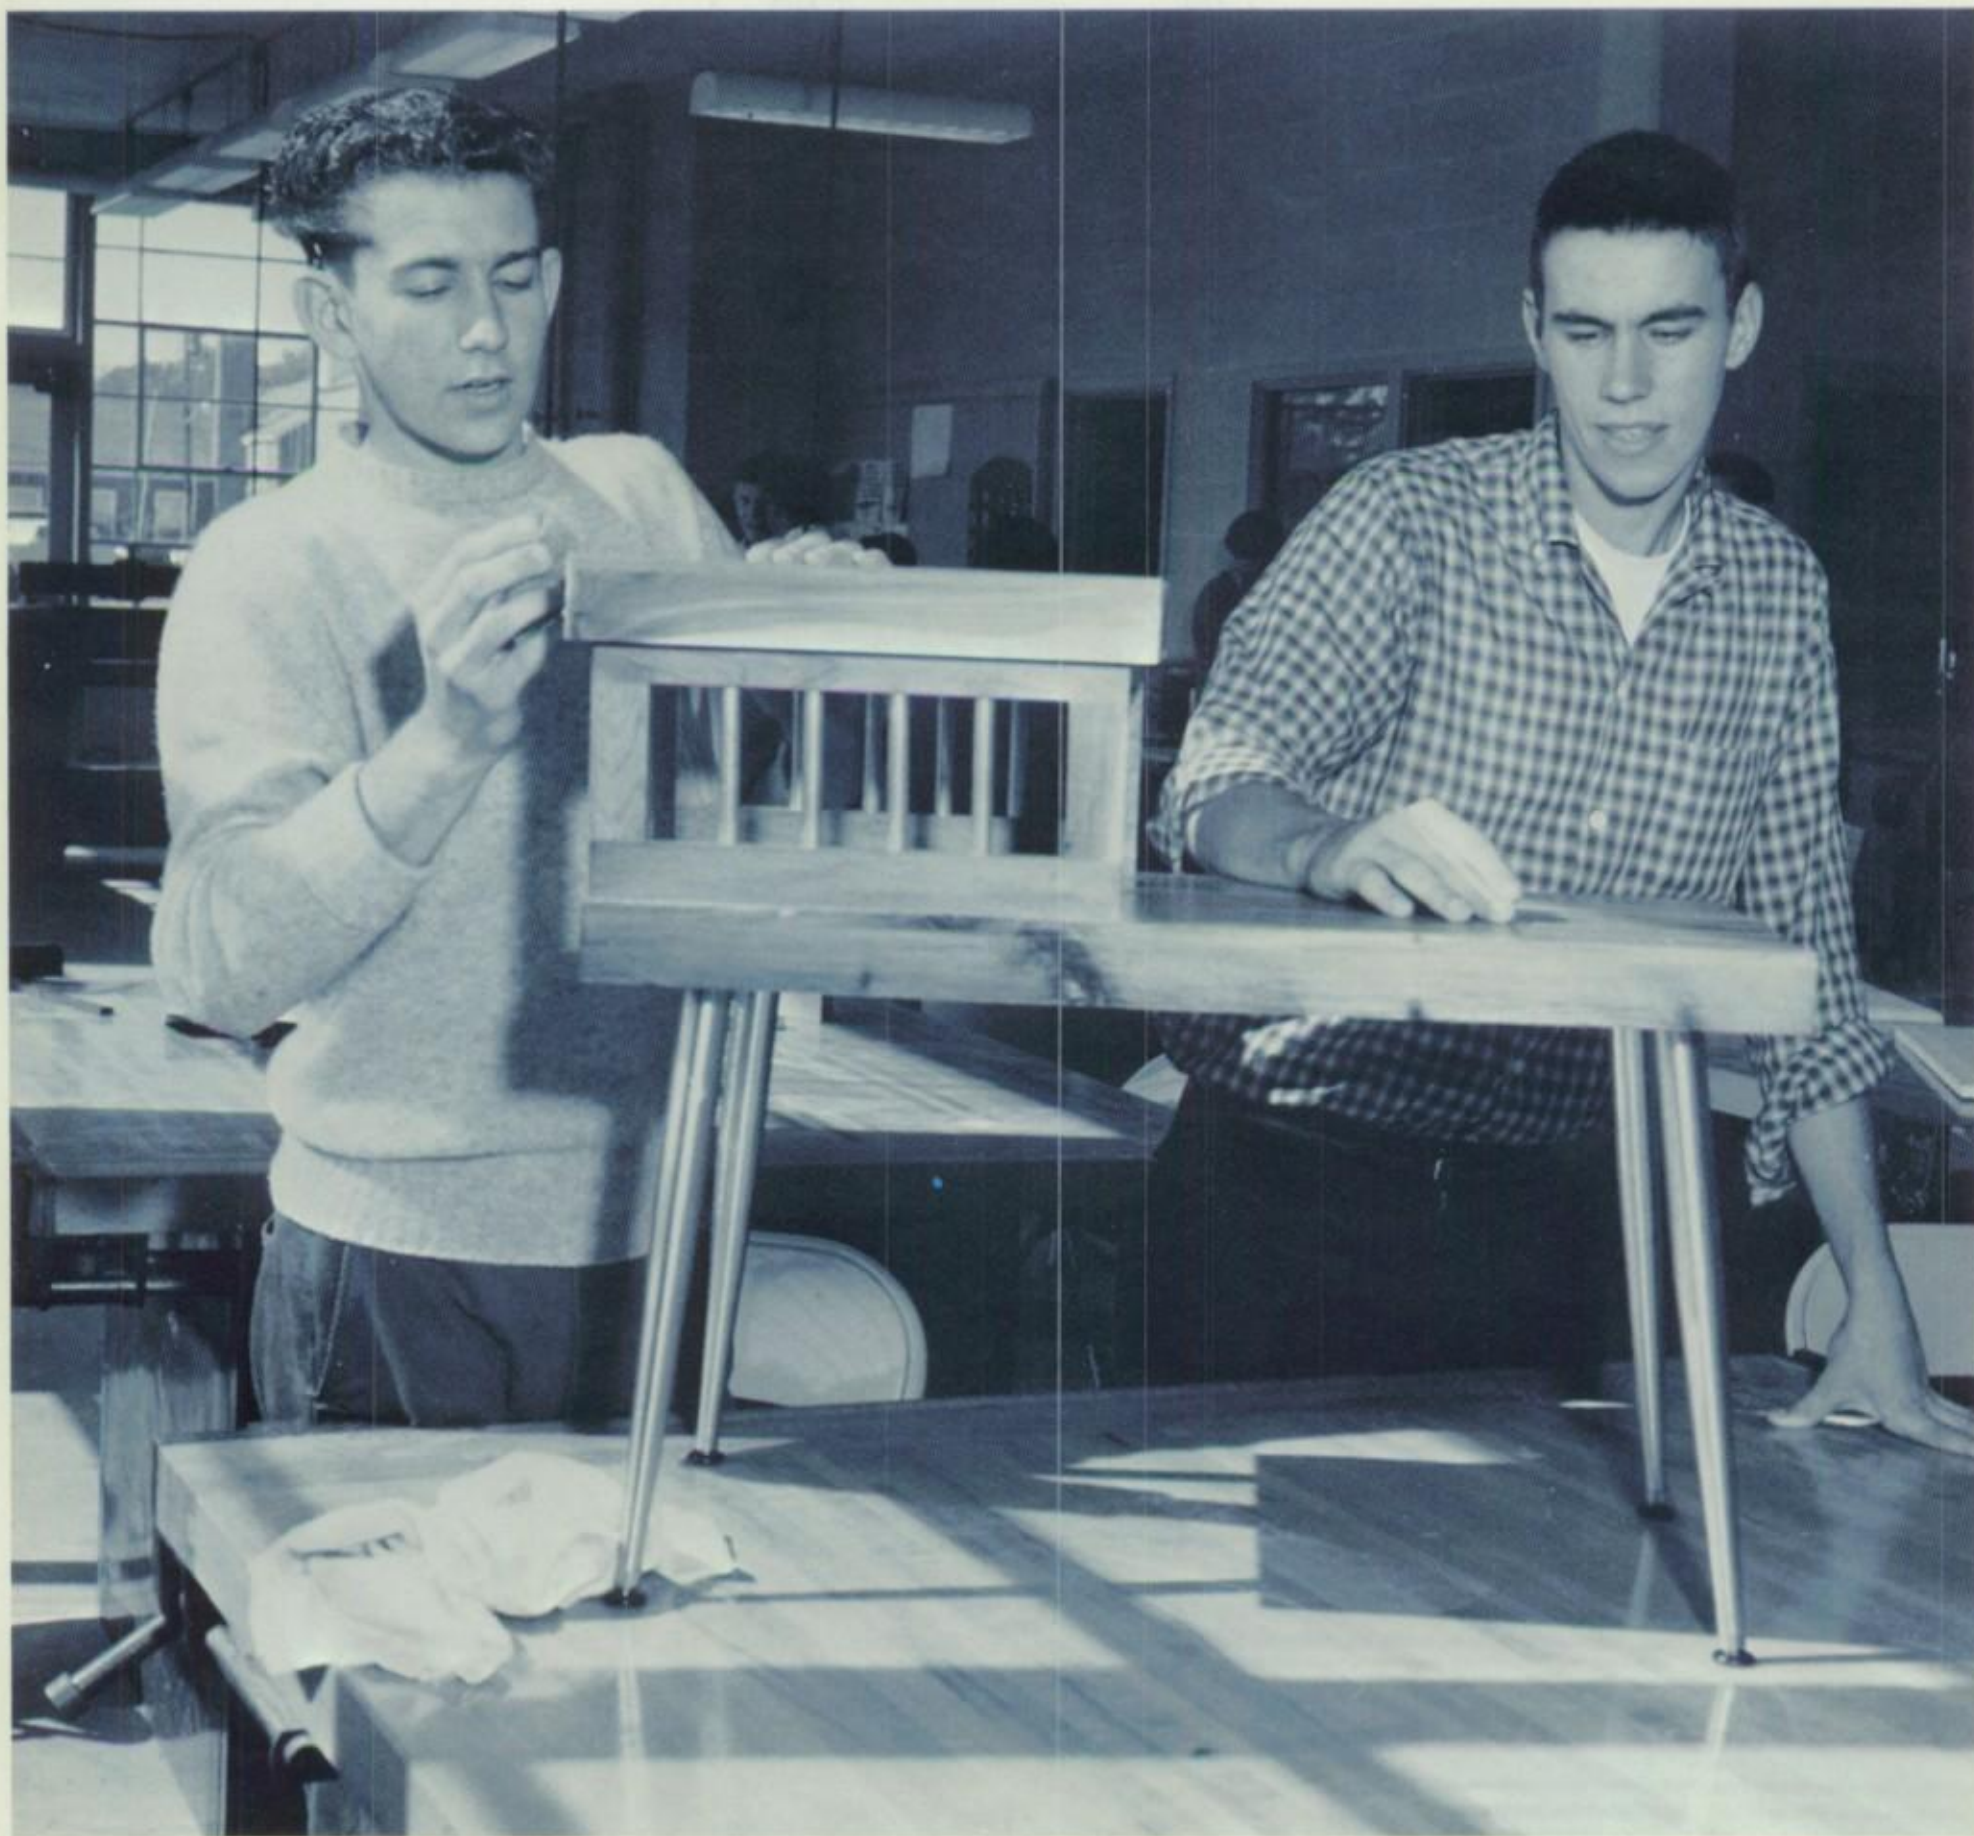

Christine Worth and Charles Montgomery demonstrate the elements of sentence structure to a freshman English class.

The bustling commercial room offers numerous opportunities for office practice to such students as Judy Winkle and Charlene Wilmink, who seek futures in the business world.

Lynn Rhein, Lura Mullins, and Carlyn Brown employ the techniques necessary for the effective management of a home or for successful careers in allied fields.

Practical skills required for building, maintaining, and equipping homes supplement the academic training of Vernon Lotz and Philip Burrell.

To achieve physical fitness, Lynn Rhein practices on the trampoline as Linda Grayson, Susan Arnold, Ann Outzs, Sandy Pirman, and Pat Tomlinson observe her antics.

Participation in team sports provides an opportunity for Charlotte Grogg, Janet Hendershot, and Donna Kendall to develop qualities of sportsmanship.

The lake during the winter months seems exceptionally beautiful to skaters who have spent the day in school.

With examination time approaching, skating affords much needed relaxation to Sandy Pearce, Dick Pinkvoss, Kitty Hurney, and Joan Pinkvoss.

Seniors

As a senior dons his cap and gown in preparation for graduation, many thoughts course through his mind.

He is going to be free from the restrictions under which he labored while in school.

He has successfully completed his secondary education.

He is looking forward to success in college and in business.

These reflections, however, constitute only the happy side of the picture; he will have some regrets.

He is forsaking a kind of security which the school offers.

Perhaps he won't admit it, but he will probably miss the school itself.

He is leaving old friends and familiar faces for a world of business which is new and foreign.

Hope and expectation, nevertheless, overbalance his anxieties when he contemplates the future and its challenges.

Underclassmen

The underclassman is a person of many and varied interests. His extracurricular activities are evidenced by his wide participation in the various clubs and sports; but since the main objective of a school is education, most of the student's time is spent on his studies.

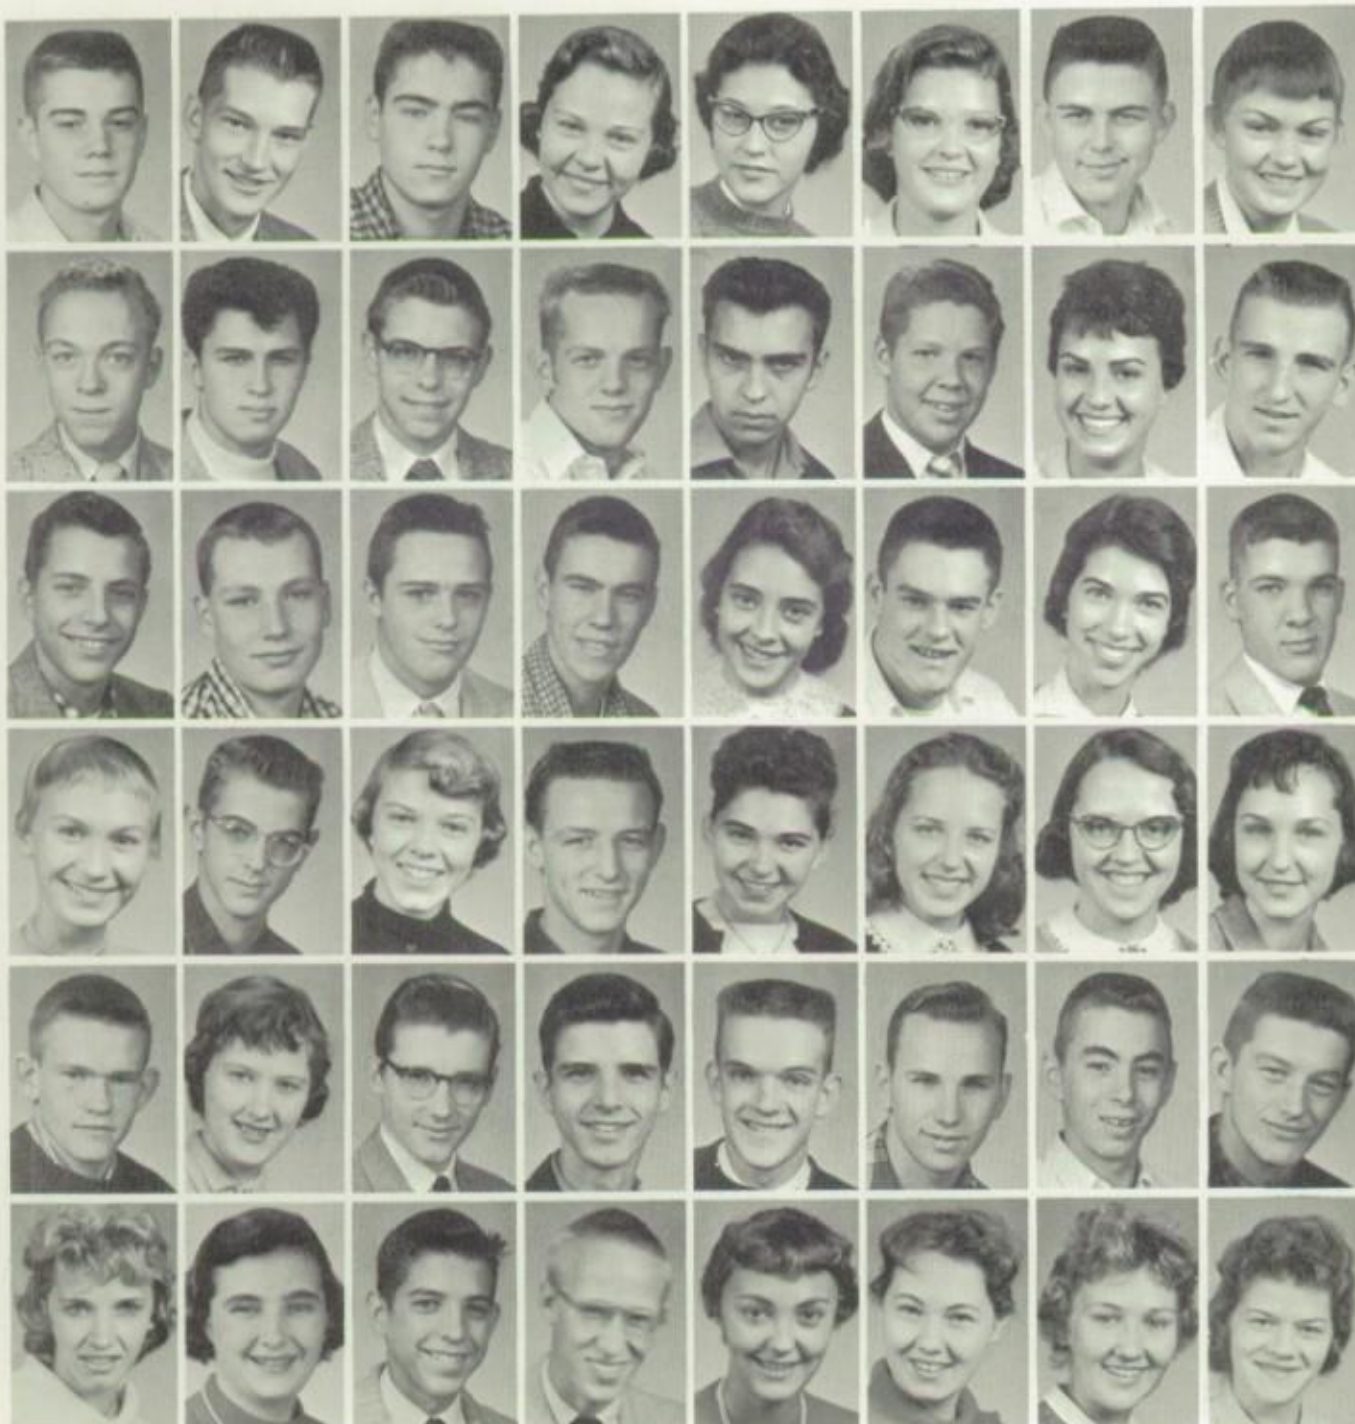

The acquiring of a good basic knowledge cannot be over emphasized. No matter what type of course the student is taking, basic knowledge and good study habits are of paramount importance. If a person anticipates being successful in later life, he must have a strong foundation upon which to build. In a sense, the way he spends his days as an underclassman can greatly influence the kind of life he will lead.

E. WAYNE TITUS
Principal

To the Seniors —

High school graduation does not represent the end of the road but rather a bend in the road. The achievement of such a goal is no time to rest on your oars. The greatest danger that can come to mankind is the danger inherent in self-satisfaction and self-gratification.

The Parable of the Talents teaches us that we must strive to improve and to build upon those God-given abilities which, if developed properly, will yield a large measure of satisfaction.

A noted writer once said, "The darkest hour in any man's life is when he sits down to plan how to get money without earning it."

There probably is nothing more important to young people today than the realization that there is power in self-restraint, power in knowledge, and power in prayer.

Discover yourself, glorify yourself, trust in God; and your future will be assured.

Congratulations, and best wishes.

Organizations

Organizations play a major role in the life of the students at Anderson. The clubs give members an opportunity to learn about the world they will enter after high school, to strengthen qualities of leadership, to develop their talents further, and to serve the school.

Training for and learning about the field that a senior wishes to enter after graduation is very important; hence the existence of such groups as FBLA, FTA, Health Careers, Latin, and Science Clubs. To suggest job possibilities in the post high school world, local industries invite such organizations to visit their plants. The training process is served by the pupils' actual participation in activities in their chosen fields; FTA members occasionally assume teaching responsibilities in elementary classes, and Health Career members assist in Cincinnati Hospitals.

All the clubs afford ample opportunities for the exercise of qualities of leadership. Even though a student isn't elected to an office, he may serve on numerous committees.

For those who care to pursue further a specific field, such as music or journalism, the Band, various choruses, Glee Club, the Lantern, and the Andersonian welcome recruits.

To improve the school is the aim of the service clubs: Hi-Y, Key Club, Y-Teens, Pep Club, Student Council, Varsity and Projection Club. They give their time to aid school projects and their money to further worthy school causes.

Scholarship Keys

In order that scholarship keys may be more meaningful, the procedure by which they may be obtained has been revised. In general, standards and time limits for the attainment of keys have been raised.

The following procedure is in effect:

1. Points are figured on semester grades. Points are awarded as follows:
A — 4 points; B — 3 points.
2. The first key which may be earned is the Bronze, which requires 36 points earned by the end of the Sophomore year.
3. The Silver Key requires 72 points earned by the end of the Junior year.
4. The final key is the Gold, requiring 108 points.

Gold Key: Richards, Pace, Burns, Ryall, Winkle, Salters. ROW TWO: Peter, Portner, Worth, Todd, Cardone.

Silver Key: ROW ONE: Johnston, Leisure, Armstrong, Buschur, Brockschmidt, Inlow, Floyd. ROW TWO: Judge, Mishler, Staub, White, Tudor, Schmidt, Pfingstag, Martin, Williams. ROW THREE:

Hurney, Emmert, T. Jensen, Silver, Elder, Curnayn, Waddell, Justes. ROW FOUR: Gibson, Doggette, Ford, Borgel, Kirby, J. Jensen, Stiles.

Athletics

The development of sportsmanship is almost synonymous with participation in athletics. No one who has participated in a good athletic program can leave that experience without a better understanding of the value of an honest but courteous rivalry.

Leadership is another important by-product of sports. The team will not work to its greatest potential unless there is some one to urge the individual members on. There is a saying in Britain to the effect that the leaders of England are born on the playing fields of Eton.

Anyone who has ever played in one of the team sports also recognizes the value of teamwork. He knows that no matter how good each member is, if they do not work together they are not going to win. In sports the excellence of the team as a whole is recognized as the excellence of each member.

There is nothing better than a good athletic program to strengthen the morale of a student body. A wide variety of sports cannot help appealing to the majority of students. This common interest then spreads until the whole school is welded together into one compact group.

Activities

In this section are pictured the activities that complement the academic and the athletic programs of the school and help to give to the student certain marks of the educated person which the curriculum alone cannot provide.

Plays presented by the Dramatics Department afford great opportunities for those individuals who are fascinated by the lure of spotlights and grease paint. They make available many of the experiences that a professional actor or actress would meet. What person can conceal a deep sense of pride when he sees the successful performance of the play upon which he has lavished so much hard work?

Highlighting the school year are the Senior Banquet, the Junior-Senior Prom, Senior Breakfast, Class Day, Baccalaureate, and, finally, Commencement. To many students these events represent something of a goal, the end of a high school career; but to others they mark the beginning of a new and greater phase of life.

Class Day 1959

Lucille Sharp and Emma Justes give a dialogue on the song, "She Say."

Judy Theurer puts her "French Heels" on for a snappy number.

Faculty Members, Ritchey, Black, Cruse, Titus, Miller, Furrier, Wixsom, Grooms, Brown, and Reece assist Gerhardt, Judge, Theurer, Ross, Lawson, Greer, Pirman, Corken, Keller, and Johnson in "Teacher's Pet."

Sherry Richards pantomimes "Old Fashioned Girl" as Gary Miller and Jo Del Dunham jitterbug in the background.

John Doggette, Carl Crowthers, Jerry Todd, Tom Meier, Jerry Denges, and Dick Wykoff use bongoes and the piano in their interpretation of "Be Mine."

Judy Winkle informs Bill Worth that "Anything You Can Do" I can do better.

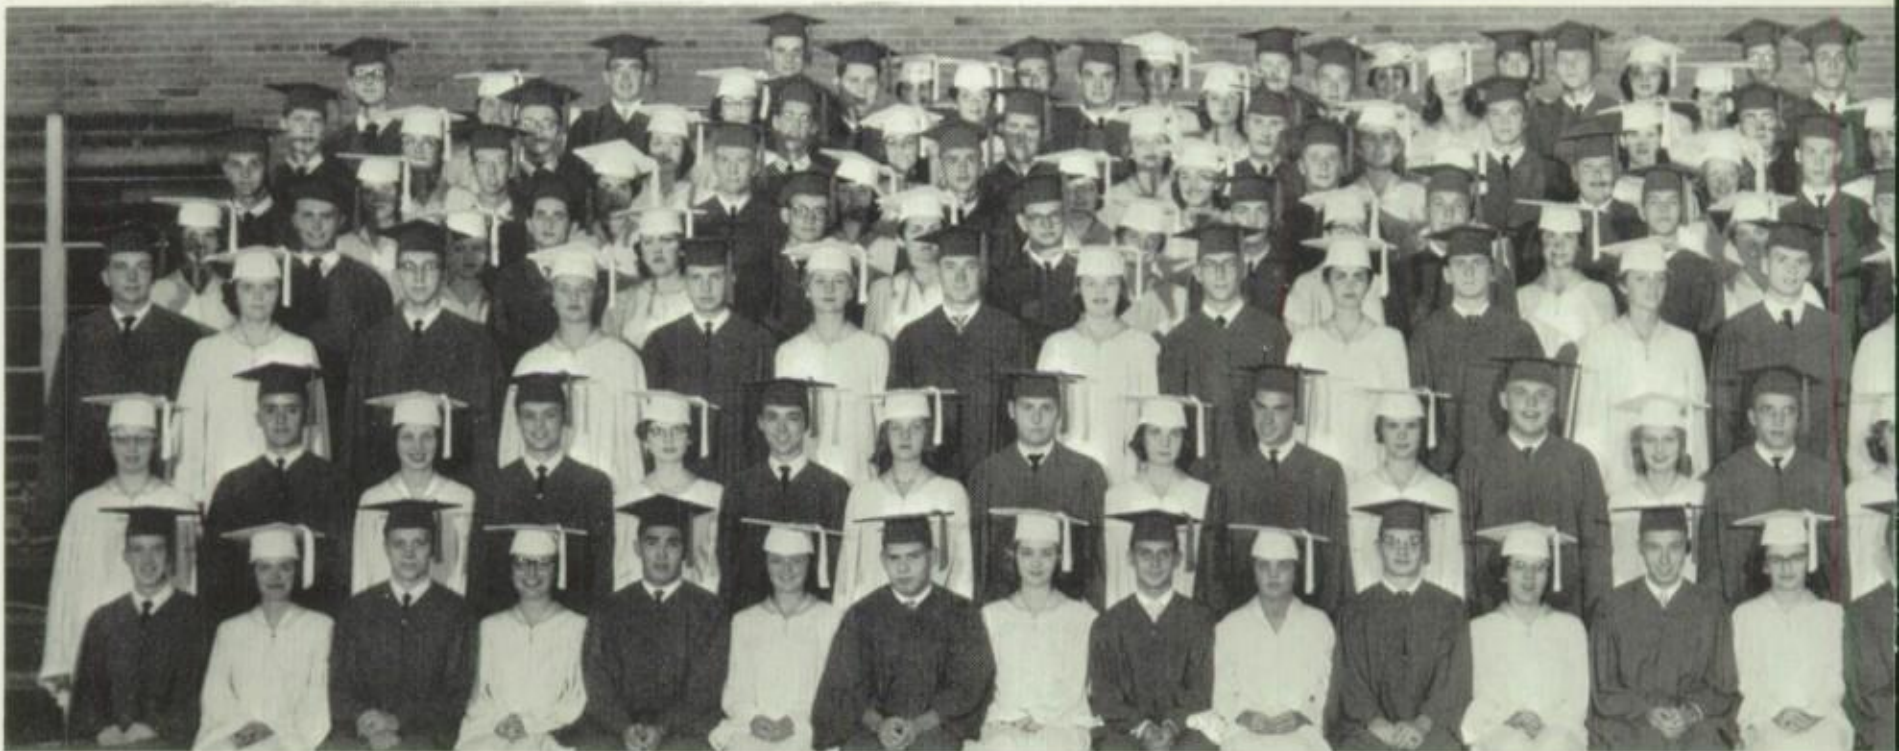

Janet Tucker, Ron Schweitzer, and Dick Pinkvoss look on as Bob Cardone (Mr. Grooms) shows off his Errol Flynn tie.

"Well, girls, what happened this time?" asks Dick Worley (Mr. Reece) after Kathy Warford (Miss Silver) has ushered in Judy Osborn and Pat Alsip.
